

ABSTRACT

In an image display apparatus having a memory function of image data, the power consumption is reduced. This effect can be attained by providing each DRAM memory cell with an amplifying FET.